HERMES TRISMEGISTUS AND THE 7 HERMETIC LAWS

Glyphs for The Seven Hermetic Laws of Ancient Kemet
By Apuat En Heru / Jonathan Woods 8-7-2009 Inspired by Wayne B. Chandler's book Ancient Future Layout by Suji Lee
 MENTALISM	The Principle of Mentalism The All is mind; The Universe is Mental.
 VIBRATION	The Principle of Vibration Nothing rests; everything moves; everything vibrates.
 POLARITY	The Principle of Polarity Everything is dual; everything has poles; everything has it's pair of opposites; like & unlike are the same; opposites are identical in nature, but different in degree; extremes meet; all truths are but half-truths; all paradoxes may be reconciled.
 GENDER	The Principle of Gender Gender is in everything; everything has it's Masculine & Feminine Principles; Gender manifests on all planes.
 RHYTHM	The Principle of Rhythm Everything flows out & in; everything has its tides; all things rise & fall; the pendulum swing manifests in everything; the measure of the swing to the right is the measure of the swing to the left; rhythm compensates.
 CAUSE & EFFECT	The Principle of Cause & Effect Every cause has its Effect; every Effect has its cause; everything happens according to Law; Chance is but a name for Law not recognized; there are many planes of causation but nothing escapes the Law.

END QUOTES

‘Africa, the Mother of Humanity and the archaic home of Tantra tradition. Tantric practices are found in most ancient spiritual belief systems. Unfortunately, with the advent of Christian missionary activity, many of the places where archaic forms of Tantra were once practiced, now have only traces of this knowledge. Africa is the best example of this phenomena. Africa, the "home" of humanity, the original motherland. Look closely at traditional African spiritual cultures, such as the Dogon of Mali, the Fang and Kota of Gabon and the Yoruba of Nigeria, and traces of Tantra become apparent. Belief in reincarnation, in the immortality of the human spirit, the spiritual law of "cause and effect, the need to balance the masculine and feminine energies within our bodies, divination, spirit possession, meditation, mystic power phrases, spells and amulets, the power of sacrifice and the sacraments of sex are but some of the tenets common to both the African and Asian archaic spiritual traditions’.(The Temple of Africa-www.tantraworks.com)

Buddhism originally did not have a tantric tradition but in the early part of the first millenium BC it developed one, that was after direct contact with the teachings of ancient Egypt....There's a strong connection between Memphite Theology (Memphisism) and early Buddhism, it is reasonable to say that Buddhism and its creators were impelled by ancient Egyptian religion just as were the Confucius, the Pythagoreans, and the Taoists.(Ashby,The Ancient Eygyptian Origins of Buddhism, 2006)

"It is of course possible that a complex diffusion situation obtained parts of the doctrine descending into both Greece and India from some earlier source, or other parts being passed from one of these cultures to another at a later time. But what is clear and what should enter the general discussion on the topic, is that the tantric physiology is not exclusively an Asian element and that a diffusion situation probably involving some of these factors just reviewed was involved in its presence in India as well as Greece but there may be a still more ancient world involved."
